A Letter Expressing Support for Candidate Mr. John Brewer

November 10, 2026

Gentlemen of The Rittenhouse Club,

I am honored to write to you in support of John Brewer's candidacy for membership in The Rittenhouse Club.

I first met JB at Citi, where we overlapped in the Real Estate & Lodging group. He was a few years ahead of me, and at a point when most people are focused solely on their own workload, he took the time to look out for me. He did not have to, and he never asked for anything in return. JB is a big part of the reason I stayed in real estate, and we have remained close ever since. I am confident he will bring that same generosity and loyalty to The Rittenhouse Club.

JB graduated from Brown in 2017 with a degree in Economics and brings nearly a decade of real estate experience to Wharton. He began his career in Real Estate & Lodging investment banking at Citi before moving into real estate secondaries at Carlyle and then to Cadre. Most recently, he spent three years as a Senior Associate in Goldman Sachs' Urban Investment Group. He also comes from a remarkable family. His mother, Roz Brewer, is the former CEO of Walgreens and Sam's Club, and it is clear that JB was raised with the same work ethic and drive that define this club.

Now a first-year at Wharton, JB is focused on luxury hospitality, and our shared interest in the space has given us the chance to reconnect and spend even more time together. He has approached this next chapter with the same intentionality he brought to his career, and he carries the maturity and steadiness of someone who knows who he is.

What stands out most about JB, though, is how he treats people. For all he has accomplished, he carries himself without any pretense. He is sharp, humble, and genuinely good company: curious, easy to talk to, and far more interested in the people around him than in talking about himself. Those qualities make him someone people trust and want to be around, and I have no doubt he would be a worthy member who strengthens this community for years to come.

Mr. Brewer's candidacy is seconded by Mr. Jordan Harris.

In the Bonds,

Mr. Tyler Patterson
The Rittenhouse Club
Class of 2027