A Letter Expressing Support for Candidate Mr. Chris Brown

November 9, 2026

Gentlemen of The Rittenhouse Club,

I am honored to write to you in support of Chris Brown's candidacy for membership in The Rittenhouse Club.

I got to know Chris this fall as the goalie on my hockey team and as a fellow member of the Ski and Snowboard Club board, where the two of us are planning this spring's trip to Japan. Between weekly games, board meetings, and the hours spent putting a trip together, I have seen a lot of him in a short amount of time, and I can say without hesitation that he is one of the most stand-up guys I have met at Wharton.

Chris attended Princeton, where he was an All-American lacrosse player and finished his career as one of the top ten scorers in program history. After graduation he spent four years at Accenture in New York before coming to Wharton.

You would not know any of that from talking to him. A background like his makes it easy for someone to think highly of himself, and he simply does not. He is genuine, humble, and kind to every person he comes across, whether a classmate or someone he has just met. He has friends across the entire first-year class rather than one group, and he is spoken of highly wherever his name comes up. I think that is the clearest signal of character we can get on a candidate.

He is exactly the kind of company this club is built around, and he is as bought in to Wharton as anyone I have met in his class. I have no doubt he would bring the same commitment here. The traditions of this club and the men who keep them mean something, and Chris is the kind of person who understands that and will carry his share of it. Several of you met him at breakfast last month, and I suspect you came away with the same impression I did.

Chris embodies the values we talked about at our fall outing: integrity, humility, loyalty, and real enthusiasm for the people around him. I am proud to put his name forward and ask for your support.

Chris Brown's candidacy is seconded by Mr. Tyler Patterson ('27) and Mr. Olsi Bandula ('27).

In the Bonds,

Mr. Teagan Atwood
The Rittenhouse Club
Class of 2027
